What are you up to now?

I am now in a tech start-up out of Ulsan National Institute of Science and Technology (UNIST). There, my duties include sketching and designing a mobile app, creating and revising pitch decks and brochures for the company. Sometimes I would code, and the other times, I would reach out to end-users to research what problems they have, so we can come to help them out in the future. Sir, why are you doing so many things? You might ask. Hey, welcome to a start-up company!

Do you have any passion projects?

I am a fanatic of art and digital creation. So that leads me to two things here. The first is music. I have been occupying myself in music production, making house music whenever I can! I guess you could call me a "bedroom DJ!" The second is digital art. As I had my mission in my company to design various visual projects, I had an opportunity to bump into design software: Adobe Photoshop, Illustrators, Blender... to name a few. Those are so fun! I am always blown away every day by how much our computer can provide us with crazy tools!

What was the biggest challenge you faced in College?

Time management. When you go to college, there likely won't be your parents recommending you to do what after school (sometimes your school will finish at 6 pm :). You will be your boss managing your study time and playtime. It will take some trials and errors. You will enjoy it nonetheless! I did it, and you will do it even better!

What advice do you have for BFS students as they go off to university/college?

In college, your journey starts. But hey I am telling you, the real journey really starts! You will likely be far away from your comfort zone and will start settling in a new place (very likely) that you haven't been in before. But don't you worry, it will be one of the exciting moments that you won't ever forget in your lifetime. You will form some of the most important friends, on your own. The new connections, new research, new you! Possibilities are endless. You will likely be away from your parents (at least I was), you will learn what it means to be independent, which in a later time, is a necessary skill in guiding your life. But trust me, you will love it!

What memory of BFS comes to mind?

Favorite memories of BFS are playing soccer with schoolmates of all ages during lunch break, performing dance choreographies as a team at school events, and hanging out with friends at Haeundae Beach after school.
